MONITOR LAWN TENNIS CLUB AWAY TO A GOOD START

Last Friday evening a small but enthusiastic meeting of the above club was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Warner, and it was unanimously decided to elect officers, and to proceed with the Club.

It was seen that the initial expense this year is very small, only a few purchases being necessary, therefore the fee for members need not be excessive. The rate finally struck was just half of last year, i.e. $1 for Ladies and $2 for gentlemen.

An order was placed at this meeting for 5 dozen Tennis Balls, and arrangements were completed whereby the posts holding the nets on each Court will be strengthened, nets mended, and new cables put in for stretching the same.

It is estimated that the Club's membership this year will be around 35 members, and it is to be hoped that the Tournament which was unfortunately abandoned last year, will this season arrive at maturity.

The following officers, after a keenly contested election, were elected for the Season 1921.

President Mr. T. E. Patterson
Vice-Pres. Mrs. J. Ehlinger
Sec.-Treas. Miss A. Martin.

Executive: The above officers, together with Miss D. Hayes and Mr. H. A. Warner.

A resolution asking for the Nationalization of our Banking and credit systems was passed.

A questionnaire asking for a Convention to be called in the Coronation constituency, for political purposes, was filled in and forwarded to Central.

A long discussion took place on the wages to be paid to farm help next summer, proposals ranging from $40 to $55 per month were suggested, but neither received unanimous support.

A ladies weight Social followed which was enjoyed by all present, and the members of the U. F. A. wish to thank the U. F. W. A. for their untiring efforts and zeal for the U. F. A. this winter.

The next meeting of this local will be held at Minor School on March 13th. A dance will follow the business routine. Ladies are requested to bring refreshments.

Oil News Another Well Being Sunk In Monitor Field

The West Regent Demick In Operation in the Monitor Field. Fields, Ltd. announces the signing of a contract for the drilling of oil in the Monitor Field. The site picked for operations, is a few miles south of Monitor between the present sites of the wells being drilled by the West Regent of Scotland, the Talpoy-Arnold Co., and the Imperial Oil Co. Ltd. The equipment for this well is now in transit to the town of Monitor, and unless something unforeseen happens, this well should be "spudded in" in about 30 days. The above Company own quite extensive holdings in the Monitor and Czar fields, and have decided to make a thorough search for oil in the Monitor Field.

Calgary Herald,
March 3rd 1921

Mr. Elder, head Driller for the Imperial Oil Co. spent the first part of this week in Calgary, the well has been closed down for a few days to repair part of the machinery and it is expected that the repairs will be made at the end of the week and they will be running full blast with two shifts.

Mr. J. Dumas of the West Regent Oil Co. has sailed from Scotland for Monitor, he expects to have two crews in and everything in smooth running shape to enter the race for the precious liquid early in the Spring.

The Union Oil Co., it is expected, will soon have their crew in and get in shape for the Summers work, they are shipping in Casing, and with their well-equipped standard rig great things are expected of them, and they should be well away to the race with the amount of work done last fall.

The Johnson Boys received word last week to the effect that a rig would be erected on their property early in April.

Three cheers for Mr. Roberts son who is bring in a rig early in the Spring.

BOARD OF TRADE AWAY TO A SPLENDID START

The most active and successful year in the history of this organization was brought to a close on Monday evening last, when the Board met in Dr. Masons office, for the purpose of reviewing the years work, electing officers, and proceeding with the business in hand.

The meeting was called to order by the President, "Doc" Larder, at 8.30, with 17 members present. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and adopted.

Communications were read from the Dept. re the Hospital, from W. J. Blair M. P. who gave the well support the measure of Colonel Griesbach to give the owners of land 1-16th royalty on all oil found. From the Kerrobert Board of Trade re Mail Clerk service on this branch of the C.P.R., from the C.P.R. re the alterations of the stockyards at this point.

Report of the committee re the Witton road was next heard. It seems there is no doubt but that this road, together with the north road will receive very prompt attention. Following the controversy re this matter, the question of the Board joining the Associated Boards of Trade of Alberta was discussed, and upon motion, it was passed to join at once.

The Treasurers report was then read, which showed the very satisfactory balance of $42.

The Secretaries report followed. This report outlined in brief the activities of the Board since last year and was in every way well worth hearing. The sec. stepped on the tails of the lax members and doubtless this will have the desired effect next year.

The President then addressed the meeting and thanked the members singly and collectively for their help and co-operation during the past year. A vote of thanks was tendered to the President at the close of his remarks and the Annual Election was then in order.

For President. There was only one nomination for this honor—that of the retiring president, "Doc" Therefore Doc took his seat again in the Presidential chair for another term of office.

For Vice-President. There was also only one nomination for this office, namely L. O. Gould who filled this office, to such satisfaction last year. Mr. Gould will therefore be Vice-President for another term.

For Secretary. Three nominations J. A. Hayes. H. A. Warner and Geo. Lucas. Mr. Hayes was re-elected to office by an overwhelming majority.

For Treasurer. Only one nomination again, that of the retiring treasurer T. H. Ferguson. Mr. Ferguson will therefore have charge of the financial end of the business for the next year.

Executive: (As nominated) Messrs Warner, Matheson, Vanhorn, Lucas and Dr. Mason. No further nominations were received, so the executive also went in by acclamation.

Following the election, a lively discussion took place with reference to the location of a dentist here, permanently, and it was decided to give the Secretary carte-blanc to get one as soon as possible.

Time and space will not allow us to report on the meeting as fully as we would wish. All being well, we will publish the report of the Secretary, which covers the work of the Board, in our next issue, verbatim.

Now folks, the fee for membership in this live organization is only ONE DOLLAR. Come on in and help boost your district, your town and your self by taking a lively interest in the workings of the Board. Only by concerted effort can anything be accomplished, let us all get together with that object and view and BOOST.

Taxation in Canada

There is an old saying to the effect that every person can be sure of at least two things—death and taxes. There is no escape from either. The adoption of proper methods of sanitation, perseverance in habits of personal hygiene, living in the open, taking healthful exercise, coupled with all the aids of medical science, may prolong one's life, but in the end death claims all. So, too, no matter how an individual may seek to evade the payment of taxes, and no matter to what corner of the world he may flee, at some time and in some way he pays a tax.

Methods of taxation, and the manner in which they are not only imposed but collected—and finally spent—are, therefore, of real importance to all people, and are deserving of thoughtful study and investigation by all, and especially by public-spirited men and women who take an interest in the welfare of their country and desire to see its institutions based firmly in justice and reason.

Here in Canada we had taxation before the Great War, and the usual amount of grumbling because of the necessity of paying for the upkeep of government was heard. But, in comparison with the burdens borne by the people of the older countries of Europe, Canadians did not know the meaning of the word "taxation." Canada was, as nearly as it is possible for any country to be, tax free. But the Great War changed all this, and today Canada has a huge national debt, in addition to Provincial, Municipal and School debts, all of which can only be borne by the people paying taxes. Through taxation, too, must come the revenues required to carry on the business of government and administration, and the maintenance of public services in all their many branches.

During the war, Canadians were wont to exclaim that they were ready to give their last man and last dollar to win the war. And while the struggle lasted they stinied neither. The war was won. It has yet to be paid for, and for decades to come the Canadian people will have to pay. Canadians recognize that fact, and they are not complaining. They told their Governments during the war period to go ahead, and they have no intention of backing out of the obligations they then assumed.

But the people of Canada have a right to demand, as they are demanding with increasing vigor, that the methods by which the necessary revenues of the country are raised to discharge those national obligations shall be such as to provide for even-handed justice to all classes in the community. Nobody appears to be satisfied with existing methods, either those whereby the taxation is imposed, or those designed for its collection. The farmer and the consuming masses, including people on small fixed salaries, are crying out against what they claim is excessive taxation by means of a high customs tariff. The business community, including merchants, wholesalers and manufacturers, fought with unceasing vigor against the Excess Business Profits Tax, claiming that it was not only unjust but absolutely opposed to the best interests of the whole people in that it imposed an impossibly intricate system on the economical and efficient conduct of business, and a cost for collection altogether out of proportion to the revenue derived. While some few complain of the Income Tax, it is not generally condemned in principle, but there is almost universal criticism of, and objection to, the administration of the law and the machinery in vogue for the collection of this tax. There is also complaint in those Provinces and Municipalities where, in addition to the Federal Income Tax, there are Provincial or Municipal Income Taxes levied, and in some cases both, making three taxes to be paid all levied on the same income.

As a result, there are feelings of discontent, unrest and resentment throughout the country which it is the duty of statesmen and governments to recognize, and to which they should, in the interests of all, give serious heed. An ostrich-like policy of blinding oneself to existing facts and conditions is not only unprofitable but unsafe. The facts of the situation should be squarely faced, and an effort made to apply a remedy, re-adjust policies and adopt methods more in harmony with the desires of the people, who, let it be repeated, are prepared to pay their full and proper and necessary share of the national taxation, but who insist that the whole question of national finance and taxation be overhauled and made more equitable all round.

The national finances of Canada have never been made the subject of thorough study and expert examination and treatment. They have always been treated, regulated and altered as the expediency of the moment might dictate and in keeping with the particular convictions, prejudices, whims or selfish interests of those who, for the time being, happened to be in control of national affairs. The inevitable result has been the lopping off of some existing tax, or the adding on of a new one, until the national financial structure has become a monstrosity, most fearfully and wonderfully made, incomplete, unsatisfactory and lacking all the elements of permanence and stability.

On the one hand, a policy is adopted which while possibly beneficial in one way is positively harmful in other ways. Policies sound in principle are so hampered by absurd machinery for their administration that they fail in effectiveness, and almost as much harm as good follows their enforcement.

No one person can devise a policy of national finance for a country like Canada, but there are some reforms necessary which appear quite plain and simple. At all events, it is proposed to discuss some aspects of the present taxation problem in Canada, and even to offer a few suggestions, in succeeding articles.

The province of Saskatchewan is one of the largest wheat producing areas in the world, producing between 700,000,000 and 800,000,000 bushels in the past seven years. This province contains 251,700 square miles equal to the size of France, Belgium and Holland combined, larger than Germany, and twice that of the British Isles. It stretches 760 miles from south to north, only one-half is surveyed. Of the total area, there is a land area of 243,382 square miles, or 155,764,000 acres. The area of arable land is estimated at 57,884,161 acres. There are 587 bank branches, an increase of 154 last year.

GOOD HEALTH CAN BE YOURS

If Your Blood Supply Is Kept Rich and Red.

It is a waste of time and money to fight merely the signs of disease; in the long run you are probably worse off than when you started. What is far more important is that you should intelligently examine the various symptoms and trace the cause. When you remove the cause, health will be yours. For example, anemic people often endure months of suffering while treating its symptoms, such as indigestion, shortness of breath, palpitation of the heart and exhaustion after any small effort.

The apparent stomach and heart troubles are generally nothing more than the result of an insufficient supply of pure blood. This anemic state may have followed some previous illness, or an attack of influenza; or it may have arisen from overwork, worry or too little fresh air. To obtain good health the simple and proper course is to build up the blood, but to do this you must select a reliable remedy with a reputation such as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills enrich the blood, the organs of the body and enables them to do the work nature expects of them. Thousands of men and women have proved this for themselves. One of these is Mrs. T. Flynn, R.R. No. 1, Erinville, Ont., who says: "Last spring I got into a badly run down condition. I had no energy; work left me exhausted and the least exertion would make my heart palpitate violently. I had often read of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and decided to try them. I had not got a half dozen boxes. I had not been taking the pills long when I felt a decided improvement in my condition and by the time I had used the six boxes I could do my housework with ease. I can strongly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to all weak people." You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail post-paid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Youthfulness of the World

Our Period Is That Of Childhood In Many Vital Respects

The youthfulness of the modern world as we accept it, is remarkable, according to Henry Ford in an interview with the New York Tribune. Thirty-five years ago there were but three or four motor cars in the world, and only for fifteen years have we had the wireless, airplanes and farm tractors.

Plainly, our period is that of childhood in many vital respects. What has happened through the development of the instruments named above in less than half a century induces great optimism for the speedy conquest of our present difficulties—Montreal Star.

Possibility That European Manufacturers Interested in Aviation Will Make Investments in This Country.

There is a possibility that in the near future European manufacturers who are interested in the development of civil aviation will make investments in this country for the purpose of competing for aircraft business, according to Col. J. C. Scott, controller of civil aviation of the Air Board, who has just returned from an extended trip to Britain and France. Special courses for pilots and navigators are conducted in both France and Great Britain, so that they can be properly trained, he said, adding that research work in meteorology is also being carried out, weather conditions being reported by wireless, telegraph and telephone to all interested in flying.

Some time ago, the repre-

CHAPTER XXVI

In the Manacles of Winter.

That night winter came and gripped the bushworld, and now as far as the eye could span distance she held the Wild in her white embrace, and all the life of nature's wood, marsh, and water seemed chilled to dead mysterious silence.

Between the scrag-line of Point Aux Pins forest and the hardwood of the mainland, Round Eau Bay lay patches with shingly ice-scale and frozen snow-drafts. Here and there a strip of white-blue gleamed from her dead bosom like a smear of slate on white, and sheets of powdery snow whirled and scudded before the fierce winds that swept her. Along the forest aisles the snow lay deep—deeper than any of the things of the Wild had ever before seen it.

Winter had swept down almost without warning, gripping the waters in its clutch and breathing into the very marrow of the trees, numbing them to drowsy forgetfulness. They stood in the blue-cold winter morning with still arms uplifted toward the chill skies, great, silent, unprotesting. And with each shortening day the frost bit deeper and their sleep became heavier. Sometimes a dream of golden summer came to besit the soul of giant beech or tall maple, and its heart, waking to life, would shiver its icy manacles with a mighty crash, only to leave it wounded and shivering, a maimed thing into which spring would breathe her healing balm after a little while. From the dead face of the bay the creek twisted, a blue vein betwixt gray lifeless rushes, and all of nature's great playground rested lonely and forsaken. On the other side, Hallibut's mill squatted, a white mound upon white, and the school-house against the hill—its bell always silent now—seemed to sink toward the valley as though longing to snuggle down and rest in the soft blanket that lay below it.

Adown the cloaked vista of Bushwhackers' Place, drab smoke-spirals like inverted tree-shadows, twisted above the forest. But there were no sounds—not even the chug of axes biting into the wood. The fiercest winter this new country had ever experienced had been reigning for three long months. The snows lay waist-deep throughout the forest and through the long nights the wolf-packs howled and protested hungrily to the cold, low-hanging stars. In the log-stables of the woodmen the cattle munched their fodder and waited. There was no work for them with the snows choking the trails and the frost menacing life, neither was there necessity for the evergoing Bushwhackers to risk life in the wintry frost. They had plenty of fuel at their command; also meat in plenty. There was not even an occasion for them to kill the animals and game-birds that had sought the protection of man when Nature seemed to have forgotten them in sleep. Food for the Wild in the deep swales and low-lands was scarce and growing scarcer. The deer, accustomed to browse on the low-hanging branches, found it difficult to secure sufficient sustenance to keep their blood warm, and they crept nearer and nearer to the little settlement of man. One morning a Bushwhacker surprised two of them, a buck and a doe, ravenously devouring the dry cornstalks that had been cast from the cattle stalls into the yard. Broods of quails crept from the thickets across to the fodder-stacks. Hunger-fearless and defiant, they took up their homes about the out-buildings, mingling with the tame fowl and roosting in huddling bunches beneath the warm, protecting stacks at night. Nor were they molested. The Bushwhackers scattered corn among the straw so that the birds might understand that a truce was established, and not until the amber fall dawned again would they have cause for alarm. But the gray timber-wolves neither asked nor sought favor from man. They held aloof from him, hating him and suspicious of him. Born to starve, their vitality outlasted that of the other forest wild things, and they trailed, tore down and devoured. For three months of unprecedented winter no trapping had been done; no more log-camps had been arranged. But the Bushwhackers had managed to get together by chiseling paths through the drifts between their homes. However, of their mere remote neighbors, such as the Broad-crooks, who lived some miles west of Ice Creek, the French trapper, and the Indians on Point Aux Pins, they had seen or heard nothing for many weeks. It was a risk to go even a short distance in the benumbing frost. No man could hope to break his way through the frozen drifts of snow piled mountain-high.

Oftentimes the Bushwhackers met together at the home of a neighbor, and perhaps Big McTavish would have his old fiddle along, and there would be long talks over the cracking of hickory-nuts and walnuts, and the evening progressed. "Mac" would strike up some of the old jig tunes, and if the party was a particularly jovial one, there would be a clog dance or two.

The dead winter had put a stop to further encroachment of their enemies, but of course the one general query among the bushmen was: "How long before they will come again?" There was something pathetic in the question these simple-hearted men asked among themselves, as in their evening talks together, they discussed how best to meet the big man with the great power. Directly they connected Colonel Hallibut with the attack, and they debated how best to do when the man capable of planning such a dastardly deed should come again.

So the Bushwhackers talked and waited, and the long, cold weeks dragged onward, and it began to look as though the fierce cold would never moderate. After half the winter had passed without a single thaw they knew that the impregnable barriers of snow would hold their enemy in leash until spring had cleared the trail.

But by and by the deadly cold relaxed its grip and for the first time during Winter's reign her orange sun dipped through the frost-mist and, touching the drooping snow-clad trees, painted a picture of a still bush-world sleeping beneath a blanket of blue-white diamond dust.

"The cold snaps over," said De-clute, late one night as he sat with Paisley, Boy McTavish, and Bill Peeler before the great fireplace in the McTavish home. "Never see it fall yet but when we've had three days sun and no snow the mild weather stays."

"Purty near time we was havin' moderate weather," replied Peeler. "Never saw such a winter as this one's been. Think of poor Injun Noah bein' holed up for six weeks like he's been. No wonder Gloss is some lonesome for the old man; he's never had to stay away from the little girl so long before. And the old man has never seen her in that silver-fur coat you and him made her, Bill. I'll bet he'd like to be here."

"It sure is a beautiful coat," said Boy, "and Gloss is mighty proud of it. She speaks about Noah every day. Wonder if he's warm and has enough to eat," she'll say, and, 'Do you think Noah'll be very lonesome over on the Point?' My, but she does think a lot of him, boys."

"Sure she does," cried De-clute. "Bless her, she couldn't think more of him if he was her own granddaddy, could she now?"

"Bein' Gloss, she naturally loves everything," nodded Paisley, "everything that moves and flies and crawls; everything that's alive, she loves."

"When she's sayin' good-night to me," said Boy softly, "she always says good-night to all of us, you know."

"Same," she does her prayers," murmured Paisley, "yes?"

"She spoke about the Broadcrooks. Wondered if they were wantin' for anything," and said she wished she knew."

"Ain't that like her?" laughed De-clute, "—worryin' about them nocount Broadcrooks? Ain't that like our Gloss, though?"

"Asked me if I'd seen anything of Amos," continued Boy, "and that made me think I hadn't seen him or any of 'em since the first blizzard came."

"Of course they're all right," said Paisley. "I know they had plenty wood up 'n' lots of meat stung. Still it does seem funny that old Amos hasn't burrowed his way through the drifts somehow. It ain't very comfortable for him at home, I guess."

"It ain't likely he's forgiven you fellers for catchin' him in the turkey-trap," said Peeler; "at least, not yet. He'll dig his way out now, though, since the weather's eased up.—See if he don't!"

There was a crunching outside on the frozen snow and somebody knocked on the door.

"Hickory and hemlock," whispered Paisley, "visitors at this time of night. Will I open the door, Boy?"

Boy glanced at the rifle leaning against the wall, and nodded. Paisley threw open the door and a tall figure, muffled in furs from tip to toe, staggered in and sank on a stool.

"I'm high played out," gasped the visitor.

"Why, it's Hank Broadcreek," cried De-clute. "Get the jug, Boy, he's just about tuckered."

"We've been since mornin' beatin' my way over," panted the man. "I've tried to get here afore, but couldn't."

"What's the matter?" asked Peeler. "Anythin' wrong at home?"

Broadcreek took the mug of whiskey Boy handed him and gulped it down.

"Amos," he answered, "is he here?" The friends exchanged glances.

"I see he ain't," replied the man. "How long has he been missin'?" questioned Paisley.

"Two days afore this awful winter set in he left him," replied the brother, "an' none of us has seen him since. He's allars been a lot 'o' worry to us. It's like him to hole up and freeze like a silly rabbit, and I guess he's done it."

"Maybe he's on the Point," suggested De-clute hopefully. "Maybe he's winterin' with the Injuns, Hank."

Hank turned his heavy eyes on the speaker.

"He's made even the Injuns hate him," he murmured. "No, he's not there."

He arose, threw off his furs, and sat down to the bread and cold meat Boy had placed on the table. After he had eaten he sat back, lit his pipe, and gazed into the fire.

This Organdie Suggests Spring Styles

By Gertrude Beresford.

Among the frocks that are designed for wear at the fashionable resorts are many whose lines anticipate the mode for spring. This interesting dress is fashioned from a bisque-colored organdie. Narrow bands of the organdie pipe the quaintly cut sleeves, outline the armholes and neck. The panels on the skirt and bodice are also made of flat bands of organdie. These insets are designed so that they look like grill work. The sash is pieced and is caught beneath the hem in the panel manner that is so much in vogue. The hat of bright green straw is trimmed with leaves of organdie.

There is no poisonous ingredient in Holloway's Corn Remover and it can be used without danger or injury.

1087 THE PROGRESSIVE

Rebellion Days, 1884-85

By O-GE-MAS-ES (Little Clerk).

(Copyrighted)

Next morning I was away bright and early and passed many deserted dwellings, especially as I reached the Lower Flat, which even at that date was a well settled farming district. My thoughts were, if even the threat of war makes this desolation, what must it be like in a country where actual armies had passed and re-passed. I stopped for dinner at a fine looking farm house and the ownerless hens again supplied me with fresh eggs. Both mine and my little pony's appearance was tough; muddy and travel stained after our long swim the night before. I was dressed in Hudson's Bay style, wearing a duffle capot with hood, which I had up, the weather having turned cold. I had a Winchester rifle across my saddle and a large revolver in my holster, which with long stroud leggings, made me look very much like I would imagine the South African Boers appeared.

On reaching the top of Miller's Hill I struck the first pickets, who were two fine looking mounted policemen with their accoutrements polished and their fine horses groomed to a finish. The contrast was so great between them and myself that it annoyed me, and when they rode up and asked my business and destination I made no reply. My pony evidently felt like myself, and as one of them approached rather closely, he let him have both heels with a squeal, much to my suppressed amusement. On we rode down the hill, my escorts on each side, but keeping a cautious distance. On reaching Goodfellow (H. B. C. Reserve) the police had a brick building there for an outpost, and one of the riders caught my bridle rein and told me in military tones that I must wait inspection by the officer in command. Out came the officer, when I threw back my hood and grinned at him. "Why," he said, "it is Mr. Beatty!" Nothing would do but I must come in, tell him the news and have a refresher, which by the way was most acceptable, for I was stiff and sore with the long ride and exposure. The guards looked rather silly at the result of their capture. I told the officer all I could think of in reference to the state of the north country, also that I was carrying despatches to the Hon. Lawrence Clarke from Ft. La Corne. "How did you cross the river?" was his question. "I swam it," was my reply, and that meant another refresher.

Up to the Mission I rode, joined Mr. Clarke's residence, and met him sitting noting with much regret that he looked a broken man (he was present at the Duck Lake fight and lost some close friends). I handed over my papers and he thanked both Goodfellow and myself with tears in his eyes at our loyalty to the old company and the saving of so much valuable property.

Here an interlude may be in order to show the great contrast between those days and our own, as at present when you ask a man to do anything, the question is, "How much is there in it?" Later on at the close of the rebellion I sent in my account for time served in the company's interests at Ft. La Corne. The amount was, I think, five or six days at $2.00 per day, and Goodfellow's was only a trifle larger, for he put in a little more time. Some of my friends remarked, "What a fool you were B., you and George might have both made your pile, and the government would have compensated the company just the same." But that was not the way business was done in the old H. B. days.

It was freely rumored that some prominent citizens obtained their start by loot secured in the upturn. After an interesting conversation with Mr. Clarke, he said, "I have a favor to ask. Will you be one of the guards round the old establishment tonight?" and to this I consented. It appeared that Middleton was hourly expected to attack Batoche and if he had been repulsed, Prince Albert would have been attacked.

There was a jolly crowd on guard that night. A long table was set in a store which was loaded with solid and liquid refreshments, and though I felt tough enough, the night passed pleasantly and quietly. I had symptoms of a sore throat coming on, no doubt due to my ducking, so started back next morning for La Corne, going by way of the Indian Reserve where there were one or two men living, and I swam the pony but was crossed over with a canoe. On reaching Goodfellow's I was seized with a violent attack of quinsy which reached a dangerous stage for some days. While I was convalescing, news of Middleton's victory and Riel's capture reached us, and there was much rejoicing. So away we went back home to Stony Creek in the same order as our arrival. I found on reaching our lone house that the Indians had been in, evidently friendly, for though there was moccasin tracks everywhere, nothing was touched, not even our seed potatoes.

A little explanation as to the prime causes of this outbreak amongst the French half-breeds and Indians may be of interest to the more recent settlers in the northwest. At first it is understood that with the exception of a few government posts, the whole country in 1884 from Port Garry to the Rockies was seething with agitation. Petition after petition had been sent to Ottawa for redress of grievances and these were as regularly filed away and little or no notice taken of them. The Canadian Pacific Railway was an iron monopoly, very much worse than the Hudson's Bay Company had ever been. They held the whole country in their grasp. No other roads could enter the country and exorbitant freight rates absorbed the small earnings of the scattered settlers. Talk of annexation with the United States was rife, and no doubt often encouraged by local American settlers. Land laws were rotten, and after you had put in three years' full time in proving a homestead it was often more than that time before you could secure a patent. The half-breeds living along the Saskatchewan since the early seventies had petitioned Ottawa again and again asking for the old Red River system of river frontage for their farms, but this was refused, and in the meantime white men were coming in and squatting on what they considered their lands. Very much the same causes existed that helped to make the first rebellion of '69-'70, the French, with their excitable natures, going much further than the more stolid British. The latter were willing to agitate for their rights, but when it came to actual rebellion they would not be a party to it.

A Wheat Pool For This Year's Crop Is Hardly Likely.

Calgary.—It is now apparent that there will be no attempt to bring into existence the co-operative wheat pool for the handling of this year's crop. This is the conclusion that has been reached by officials of the United Farmers of Alberta and the United Grain Growers, in view of the fact that it is evidently not the intention of the special committee that was appointed to ask for a charter at the present session of the Manitoba Legislature.

When seen by a representative of the Canadian Press, both H. W. Wood, president of the first-mentioned organization, and E. S. McKory, general manager of the Western Division of the U.G.G., stated that they had not been informed definitely that the application for this charter this session would be made. They were therefore inclined to the belief that no such application will be made at the present sitting of the Manitoba Legislature.

Wilson Says Good-bye.

TOBACCO HEART

Every Smoker Read This

Tobacco does not seem to affect all alike. Many men enjoy their smoke, live to a good old age, and apparently suffer no ill-effects from the use of the weed.

There are others though, on whose heart and nervous system tobacco produces the most serious results. It causes palpitation, pain in the heart, and irregularity of its beat, makes the hands tremble, sets the nerves on edge, and causes shortness of breath and loss of sleep.

To counteract this demoralizing influence on the heart and nerves there is no remedy to equal Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

They make the heart beat strong and steadily, restore tone and vigor to the nerves, and remove all the evil results caused by the tobacco. Mr. D. McKillop, Coxhead, N.S., writes: "I was using too much tobacco, and got so I could not sleep at night, my hands used to tremble something awful, and I suffered terrible from pains in my heart. I told a friend about it, and he advised me to get your Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I took two boxes and they gave great satisfaction."

Quebec Member Criticises the Government

Ernest La Pointe, of Quebec East, Is Quite Strong In His Denunciation.

Ottawa.—"Those who pretend to rule this country," dramatically exclaimed Ernest La Pointe in the House of Commons, "have no right to represent it at the coming Imperial conference, and we shall not consider ourselves bound either legally or morally by any of the decisions arrived at there."

Mr. La Pointe is the leader of the French-speaking Liberals from Quebec and now represents the division of Quebec East, which Sir Wilfrid Laurier represented so long. He was speaking at the time of the conference of overseas premiers called in London for next June, and his decision followed an arrangement of the government's right to remain in office. The Opposition, he said, would not be represented at the conference.

Cheered by Liberals again and again, Mr. La Pointe quoted a formidable array of British constitutional authorities to support the Opposition demand for a dissolution of parliament. The authority of a government to retain office was the nation, and when had the present administration received the approval of the electors? "I have not a drop of 'Anglo-Saxon' blood in my veins," he declared, "but I want to see British principles of government prevail in Canada."

The majority of the government had fallen from 70 to 20 and perhaps 15, and yet the Minister of Militia had the "gall" to call Liberals a remnant. "I hurl the mean appellation back in his face," Mr. La Pointe cried out, but here the speaker intervened. Mr. La Pointe withdrew the mean, apologizing that he was still a "tyro" in English—at which the whole house laughed.

He defined the Meighen Liberal as a "species unknown to zoology, and common sense"; compared the cabinet with a crazy patchwork quilt and charged that the government was adopting the humiliating policy of trying to get recruits from its opponents' rank to postpone the day of "shameful defeat."

Soviet Again in Control

Petrograd Revolt Reported Ended After Severe Fighting With Revolutionaries.

Stockholm.—The Russian Soviet authorities have quelled the revolt in Petrograd after bringing troops from the front, according to advices from Helsingfors.

The dispatches assert that the insurrection was crushed after service fighting, and that the city is now quiet, with the Soviet masters of the situation. The sailors at Kronstadt remained neutral.

The dispatches add that the Soviet has been unable to conceal the fact of the spread of the counter-revolutionary movement throughout the country, and that M. Kallin, president of the extraordinary commission, has been obliged to admit peasant risings everywhere.

U.S. Debt On Increase.

Washington.—An increase of $58,449,845.36 in the debt of the United States during February was announced by the Treasury Department, the gross total, February 28, being $24,051,684,728.28, compared with $23,993,234,882.29, January 31. Treasury officials explained that in months when income tax installments are not due, the debt increases, but decreased with the end of each quarter.

NERVOUS, IRRITABLE, AILING WOMEN

Mrs. Britten Tells How She Was Restored To Health After Suffering for More Than A Year.

Another Triumph for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Dimondie, Mich.—"I had inflammation and a displacement and weakness, and it had been neglected so long that it caused great pain, and this affected my mind and nerves so that I was very irritable. I had severe pains every month, so that I was often obliged to lie in bed for two days at a time. I suffered for more than a year before my friends said, 'Why don't you try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?' So I purchased one bottle after another until I had taken ten bottles, then Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I received so much benefit from this treatment that I am now able to do my own work."—Mrs. W. D. BUTTER, R. No. 2, Dimondie, Mich.

Another Michigan Woman says: "I was bothered for a long time with female troubles and was so nervous I felt almost afraid at times. I also had a pain in my right side and was certainly in a bad way. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound relieved me of these nervous feelings and pains and I am much better in every way. I don't know just how many bottles I have taken, but I took it for nearly a year and it has done me a world of good."—Mrs. JAMES GRABOW, R. No. 2, Box 51, Kalamazoo, Michigan.

Good health is a woman's greatest asset. With it she may be the inspiration of others and take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once, much suffering and unhappiness would be averted, as everyone knows a nervous, irritable, ailing mother makes the home unhappy and her condition irritates both husband and children.

The matter will be considered by the Council of the Board of Trade, when steps will be taken in an effort to have the decision reversed.

THE REAL PERIL

to guard against in skin injuries, is germ infection. This is what causes the throbbing, shooting pain in your cuts, scratches and burns—it's the real source of blood-poison and inflammation. One touch of Zam-Buk will save you this peril. Zam-Buk's powerful antiseptic properties make it the safe and ideal first-aid. At the same time as it allays the pain and irritation of a burn or a scald, Zam-Buk also drives out any poison or germ disease that may be in the broken tissues. It ends all danger of your wound or sore going "the wrong way."

In Zam-Buk there's no trace of animal fat or mineral impurity such as you get in ordinary ointments and salves. It's just the purest, safest and most concentrated healing substance ever discovered.

Mrs. S. Cliff, of Meleite, S.D., says—"I gashed my fingers severely with a piece of tin. The wound became infected and swelling and throbbing ached right up into my shoulder. So long as I live I shall remember the wonderful relief experienced the first time I used Zam-Buk. Every bit of inflammation and poisonous matter was drawn out of the wound by Zam-Buk, and perfect healing resulted. If you have not already tried this famous healing ointment, write to 'Zam-Buk Co., Limited, 84, Toronto, will bring you a free trial box."

B. C. Fisheries

Two-fifths of the total catch of fish in Canada was taken in British Columbia waters during 1919, and the industry gave employment to nearly twenty-one thousand people, according to statistics compiled by a prominent fishery operator. The year 1920 was equally strong in financial returns, though the actual catch was somewhat lower.

Road Manners

Traffic Can Be Regulated Only Through Uniform Appreciation For Rules of the Road.

Periodically it is borne in on the prudent and peace-loving motorist that much of the annoyance to which he is so frequently subjected on the highway arises from contact with the very rough-and-tumble element that his car ostensibly helps him to avoid. He goes out into the country to get away from the crowd. Consequently to encounter there the crowd's worst element shocks and amazes him. Traffic can be regulated only through uniform appreciation for the reason that underlies the rules of the road. Astonishingly few drivers seem to know or heed these rules as it is, and these must learn to differentiate themselves from those who are willfully negligent of the comfort of others. It is largely a question of manners, and those who do not know why manners are a part of life's code must be taught; those who will not learn must be restrained.

In the meantime, with the roads dotted with cars and spotted with drivers, the menace of the ill-mannered grows—"The Alberta Motorist."

Corns, Warts, Bunions,

KEEP LITTLE ONES WELL IN WINTER

Winter is a dangerous season for the little ones. The days are changeable—more bright—the sun—cold and stormy, that the mother is afraid to take the children out for the fresh air and exercise they need so much. In consequence they are often cooped up in overheated, badly ventilated rooms and are soon seized with colds or gripe. What is needed to keep the little ones well in Baby's Own Tablets. They will regulate the stomach and bowels and drive out colds and by their use the baby will be able to get over the winter season in perfect safety. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Admire Canadian Banks

American Writers Speak in High Praise of the Canadian Banking System.

The foreign reputation of the Canadian banking system is well illustrated in the apologies with which two American writers in the current journal of the Canadian Bankers' Association open their articles. George W. Edwards, of Columbia University, discussing foreign acceptances, remarks that to describe this subject in general "would be to carry coals to Newcastle, for bills of exchange in general are understood better north than south of the border." Henry A. Stimson, New York, writing on the education work of the National City Bank of New York, says: "I am aware that the banks of the United States have little to present that will be instructive to the Canadian banks."

Investigate Canada's Fuel Supply.

The appointment of a special committee of the House of Commons to investigate the future fuel supply of Canada and report thereon, is to be urged upon the house by Dr. Michael Steele (South Perth). Dr. Steele would have the committee given full power to call for all persons, papers and records, to examine witnesses under oath, and report from time to time.

Great Parachute Thrills

Sylvia Boyden Lands at Sixty Miles An Hour.

"She landed with exactly the same force as if she had lurled herself off the roof of an express train going at full speed," said Major T. Orde Lees, A.F.C., lecturing before the Aeronautical Society of Cambridge University.

His subject was parachute descents, and he gave some thrilling accounts of the exploits of Miss Sylvia Boyden, the famous girl parachutist.

Recently she made a descent at Copenhagen when there was a ground wind of sixty miles an hour. She jumped from 1,000 feet elevation and drifted 9,300 feet, passing over a lake and landing on its marshy bank by letting go of the parachute when still about 15 feet from the ground. "If she had not done so," said Major Lees, "she would have passed through the door of a cottage and landed at sixty miles an hour on the tea table."

Number Four

More than any other time in the history of farming should the dollar be made to work to the limit. Farmers should operate in such a way so as to cut down operating expenses, and at the same time increase the yield.

SMUT decreases the yield and grain should be pickled before sowing. Pickling by hand increases your operating expenses and decreases your yield. The following experiments are the average of 5 years at the Ontario Agricultural College:

Material	% Smut	Yield
Untreated	4	38 bus
Bluestone	1	41 bus
Formalin sprinkled	-	36 bus
Formalin, immersed	-	43 bus

This proves conclusively that grain should be immersed in formalin.

We have two only picklers on hand that immerses the wheat. These sell at the reasonable price of FIFTEEN DOLLARS
